BRETHREN IN CHRIST Communications
is more than just a department of the church.

In many ways, Brethren in Christ Communications is part of a larger effort to help relay the stories, news and concerns of our larger church family. It's an effort to help kindle new ideas within the larger church body by developing and creating new media and coverage that help see the activity outside each of our own churchs' circles of light. Our goal is to help show the overall glow cast by all of our church body's range of lights.

Through our magazines Visitor and Yes!, along with the church web site and other developing media projects, our goal is to help develop a network that helps relay and carry the spirit of the ministry of our church.

Our efforts also include coodinating with other church efforts, including work to integrate our support for other projects like the Board for Brotherhood Concerns magazine Shalom! and the General Church Leader's magazine Momentum, as well as expanded efforts to coordinate ongoing efforts with the World Missions and Cooperative Ministry efforts.

As part of the church's Board for Media Ministries, communications efforts are part of a larger effort to help create a relay of ideas within our church. Other extensions of the Board include a range of books and other print work developed by Evangel Publishing House for both Brethren in Christ and broader Christian markets, as well as a chain of Christian Light Bookstores, through which these and other fine offerings are made available to communities in which they serve.

Brethren in Christ Communications is an effort to help shed light on the many parts of the church – and to help spark ideas within that body.

And we are all part of that body.
